how easy it is to turn a puilln into an old gentleman. The puffins make their nests in the together one fine morning along the cliffs just to pass the time for an hour or two. They had not gone far when they spied a rabbit hole, above which there was a large board with the words, "Mr. Rabbit back in five minutes," written on it. Now these puffits, although they were young, knew enough of the world to be sure that when any one puts up a notice outside his door, "Back in five minutes," it really means that he has gone out for a long time and does not know when he will be back. So they thought they would explore the burrow, and if the rabbit chanced to come back while they were inside so much the better. It would give him a fright. So in

But it happened that Mr. Rabbit had been out for a long scamper over the cliffs, and he came loping up just as the puffins disappeared down the hole. He suspected nothing, and after looking round to be sure that no one saw him he ponged into his burrow, singing softly to himself, "Home, Sweet Home!" A second or two after and out he came with a bounce, his eyes starting out of his head with fright and all his furstanding on end. "Murder!" he screamed, "What's that?" And turning tail he rushed away as if one were shooting at him. And presently the two mischievous little puffins appeared, grinning with delight. "What a fright the old chap was in " said one to the other

But the rabbit never got over the fright. He went mad, stuck straws in the fur of his head, and the next morning be danced over the edge of the cliff and fell down, down-past the rows of puffins, past the old cormorant sitting on a jagged point of rock, past the cloud of screaming gulls which were swirling round and roundsplash into the sea far below. And his body went so far down that a big old lobster who lived in a cranny of the rock got hold of it and made a hearty meal of the remains of poor bunny. The puffins got off that time, but one can foresee that their tricks may some time end in trouble for

A Monster Gas Holder. A monster gas holder is that to be erected for the South Metropolitan Gas company, of London. It is stated that it will have a capacity of 12 000 000 feet of gas; at it will be 300 feet in diameter, with an altitude of 180 feet when at its full height; that its total weight will be 2,230 tons, of which 1,840 tons will be of wrought iron, 60 tons of cast iron and 320 tons of steel, nd that it will require 1,200 tons of coal to it with gas. For the reception of the gigantic gasometer a concrete tank 303 feet n diameter and 31 feet 6 inches deep has been made.

Origin of a Popular Phrase. It has been explained that the term "blue stocking" was originally used in Venice about the year 1400 to designate literary classes by colors. Members of the various scademics were distinguished by the color of their stockings, blue being the prevailing color. The application of the term to women originated with Miss Hannah Moore's admirable description of a "Blue Stocking Club" in her "Bas Bleu."

The Mischlevous Trick Which Two Little Puffins Played Upon Poor Mr. Rabbit. Do you know what a puffin is! Well, the puffin is a funny little black and white hird, about a foot in length, with a big. colored beak, which makes the creature look as if it had put its head into a tea cozy. On the rocky cliffs of some sea coasts you may see rows of puffins, sitting and bowing and nodding to each other in a very comical way. They sit very upright, as diving birds generally do when they are ashore, and they look like a lot of stout old gentlemen in black coats and white waistcoats chattering together. If
